KCLS STRATEGIC INITIATIVE: DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND INCLUSION
Cynthia McNabb, Deputy Director of Administrative Services, said that Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) was identified as a core value when KCLS engaged staff and patrons in 2016 to refresh KCLS’ mission, vision, and values. In 2018, the DEI Strategic Values Project Team was established to explore three questions: 1) How is DEI an essential part of KCLS? 2) How does KCLS define DEI values and make them understood by staff? and 3) How are DEI values put into action? After four months gathering feedback from staff through facilitated meetings and surveys, the staff team presented 75 recommendations to the KCLS Leadership Team (KLT) in October 2018, which KLT prioritized and incorporated into a five-year strategic planning cycle.

In 2019, KCLS began incorporating DEI awareness into its hiring processes, employee orientation and handbook, and performance management guidelines. DEI recommendations with budgetary impacts, such as DEI consultant services and a new DEI director-level position, were incorporated into the 2020 Budget.

In January 2020, KCLS began working with Fran Partridge and Marlon Brown of Racial Equity Consultants to conduct organizational assessments and address staff’s recommendations to help KCLS become a more accessible and inclusive organization. Racial Equity Consultants (REC) created a structure that would allow every person in the organization to have a voice around racial equity at KCLS. Listening sessions were held for staff who participated; they were conducted in two separate spaces: one for people of color and another for people who are white. This provided a place where people of color could share their personal experiences at KCLS without feeling vulnerable. Likewise, a similar space allowed for open dialog among people who are white while mitigating potential harm to people of color that could arise from cross-racial conversations. The sessions were an opportunity for staff members to hear how others in the organization talk about race and racism, learn common vocabulary, and recognize how racism presents in our daily lives.

In-person listening sessions that were interrupted when KCLS closed due to COVID-19 were replaced with an online survey. In total, 489 staff provided feedback either in person or online. Eight key recommendations that surfaced from the feedback were presented to the Board of Trustees for review. One recommendation, for a new Director of DEI, has been prioritized and the hiring process is underway. Other recommendations, such as DEI training for staff at all levels, have been incorporated into the 2021 budget.

The Listening Sessions Report is appended to the August 26 Board meeting agenda at https://w3.kcls.org/board/2020/08262020/boardagenda.pdf.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT PROGRAM: FACILITIES
Greg Smith, Director of Facilities Management Services, said KCLS’ Capital Investment Program (CIP) is a five-year plan to cover major repair and replacement of KCLS’ capital assets. KCLS has continued to focus on CIP projects this year and has been able to complete some projects more efficiently while buildings have been closed, such as painting and re-carpeting.

Projects are prioritized based on four criteria: health and safety standards; urgency; projects that support new or expanded services; and condition of the capital assets. There are 17 projects scheduled in 2020, ranging from HVAC upgrades to roof repairs, and 13 are anticipated to be completed by the end of the year, including four vehicles used by Buildings and Grounds staff that will be replaced in November. Four projects are on hold.

Greg noted that the Washington State Department of Commerce, in consultation with the Library Capital Improvement Program committee, is soliciting applications for a statewide competitive grant to assist libraries to acquire, construct, or rehabilitate facilities. The grants would reimburse up to 50% of a library’s project costs. KCLS submitted six qualifying CIP projects. Awards will be announced in early 2021.

COMMUNICATION STRATEGY AND RESULTS
Communication Relations and Marketing Director Julie Acteson said there are four elements to KCLS’ communication strategy and showed how each has been used since the Library System closed on March 16.

Earned Media is content that is published by third parties at no cost to KCLS, and has included nearly 5,000 KCLS events that were posted by media outlets to online calendars through the end of July. Partnerships with community newspapers, magazines, and local television has resulted in 507 Mentions in other media between March 16 and July 31, with an audience reach of 203.6 million.

Owned Media is branded content controlled by KCLS. It includes KCLS’ website, social media channels and blogs, email newsletters, and signage. KCLS currently publishes eight System-wide newsletters and 19 local library newsletters reaching a monthly audience of more than 115,000 and 45,000 readers, respectively. KCLS’ website has had more than four million views and includes links to blogs posted by KCLS’ Executive Director and staff. Owned Media is measured by audience size, link clicks, engagements, and impressions, and KCLS has seen triple-digit percentage increases in 2020 compared to 2019.

Paid Media refers to television, radio and print advertising. As of July 31, KCLS aired a total of 452 television commercials, 510 radio spots, and ran 37 print ads, creating more than $80,000 in leveraged value.

Other Communication is directed to key library stakeholders, such as elected officials, Friends groups, and Rotary clubs. It has included presentations regarding library services and additional COVID-related information during the closure.
